HEMEROCALLIS

Frances Fay $15.00

(Fay 1957)

A very vigorous plant which increases rapidly and produces many 28" bloom scapes, each carrying 40 to 50 buds. It has always rebloomed for me and usually has three periods of bloom in the Chicago area. The light pastel melon flowers are large, wide open, and of very good substance. Fertile both ways, and is the best parent I have ever used.

No. T49-14 — North Star X Joanna Hutchins

Perky is a large 6½-inch yellow flower which opens wide and has one petal longer than the other two petals. The plant is small with narrow leaves. The slender wiry 33-inch scape carries the flowers just above the foliage so the scape is hardly noticed. Flowers open early in the morning and stay out until dark; does not fade. Dormant, winter hardy, good grower and increaser.

(1960)

No. 56-1 — Laura Magnuson X Archangel

This new second generation triple hybrid peony is completely winter hardy; is a fast increaser and a beautiful plant.

The flowers are large semi-double, very clear light yellow, with no markings. They have excellent substance making them ideal in the garden or as cut flowers. The plant is a vigorous grower with strong stems of average height. The leaves are bright glossy green and retain their color until frost. Blooms with the early hybrids in late May or early June in the Chicago area. Produces an excellent root system which divides easily. Divisions planted in fall usually bloom the following spring. The first year the plant produces beautiful single, cup-shaped flowers. On established plants the flowers are semi-double.
